BUSINESS proceeds with a monotonous sameness that speaks well for the ease with which money matters arrange thomselves jost now, "Easy is the word used at the banks in reference to money, and the street operators are inclined to say "too easy," as they fall to find employment for their capital at the usual rest of the capital at the usual property of the capital at the usual state of the capital at the usual capital and the capital at the usual capital and the capital at the usual capital capi are inclined to say "loo easy," as they fail to find employment for their capital at the usual rate of interest. Stocks and bonds are too inactive to give subject for remark, except that there has been some quiet inquiry as to what city securities could be had, which proved to cover attempts to sell. For sixes currency we find brokers willing to give it with the January coupons; for gold bonds we can hear of no quotation. Nicoleon pavernent bonds are inquired about, but their standing is embarrassed by a question as to whether their legitimate owners, or those who possess certain tax-paying property, are the proper propries of them. An anotion sale will be made of some to-day that may probably help to test the market value of these bonds. Arkansas State serip .... IN THE COTTON MARKET New York quoted middling 15/3c; New Orleans, at noon, was easy, but at two o'slock was firm at 15%c; sales, however, were only 2000 bales. Liverpool still quoted 75/d, with sales of 12,000 bales. Mobile quoted middling 15c; Charleston, 15a 15/3c; Galvecton 15/4c; Memphis 15/3c. Recipts at all the ports show some failing off, for the five days 16/2l against 11/48 last week, and 87,8c2 af the corresponding week last year. The impression is strong that this is a crisis week; that if the receipts of colton continue through and beyond it, the price will go down and stay down. But there is a host that are certain that at the end of the next seven to ten days the decrease of cotton receipts will be so marked as necessarily to increase confidence and raise prices. On the other hand the bears point to receipts at interior points, and express the assurance that the advance there shown will keep seazorts up full two weeks more, and so work in favor of buyers. The moment is a critical one, and receipts are watched and examined with unusual care. Our market was not live-IN THE COTTON MARKET New York ith unusual care. The market closed quiet and weak at these quocations; sales, 1(0) bales, of which spinners took 1100; exporters, 300 bales. COTTON STATEMENT. . 1st. 508-614 250,632 268,154 73,085 31,875 81,972 From the New York Chromicle, January 31, we condense the following: In the crop of 1878-74 the erop was a wet one. There is no more than the old average of dust and other heavy waste. The staple is excellent; in very few crops was it ever so good, and it is found that the "fly" waste fails to the minimum. The bales were of greater average weight, and his without same, though not without some dainpness, which will cause a small less in "sprinkage." An unusually large portion of resurinkage. An unusually large portion of this trop will be degraded by "slain," but otherwise it is of better grade than usual. All the "waste accounts" in the naffis at home and abroad will run lighter on this crop than on the average for several years, not in our average including last crop, a reconstraint of the average as we have already ated. It follows, therefore, that the produc-on this year in expending value, whatever the number of bales, is to be rated in just com-parison against only 3,683,000 bales of equal value in all the last crop. This difference will be fest more in England than exember. Here, and on the continent of Europe the better and less dusty cotton was chiefly used. But Engiand was the receptacle of two-therds to three-fourths of our very dustr cot-ton. For unately for her; she obtained it at a price quite id lower than similarly degrated cotton cotton commands relatively in ordi-

Yesterday was warm, clear and pleasant; in fact, it was more like a mild May day than anything we ever experienced in the we sher line so early in the year. Overcoats an I all manner of wraps were unnecessary. The river came to a stand, and now measures twenty-six feet six inches above lower-water mark. The decline en the upper rivers continues, while at St. Paul the Mississippi is frozen over. Red river is the only one reported as rising. Business was very good—all outgoing packets carrying good brips; those that arrived brought in fair cargoes.
